Anita Halterman

Anita Halterman was appointed to the Anchorage Woman's Commission in August, 2011 and again in November of 2015 after a one month break in service. Anita is married and has three grown daughters and two grandchildren. She and her husband settled in Eagle River years after both served in the United States Army and Anita's husband was stationed in Alaska. They enjoy spending time with their growing family and on their daughter's farm in Eagle River. Anita has a master's degree in Business Administration with a specialization in health care administration from Wayland Baptist University. Anita worked for federal, state, and local government for over twenty-five years. She currently is self-employed as a healthcare consultant after having worked for many years for the Department of Health and Social Services. Anita most recently worked for state government in the 29th Alaska Legislature as a Chief of Staff for an Anchorage legislator. She has worked for Child Support, Public Safety, and Corrections. She was very active in Girl Scouts and the schools when her children were young. She currently serves as a board member on the Alaska Women's Hall of Fame and as the President of the Alaska Collaborative for Telemedicine and Telehealth. Anita has worked on local, state and national policy and political issues. She is concerned about women's issues and hopes to continue to bring a unique, well rounded perspective to the Women's Commission.
