I am a current Municipal employee in an appointed position working in the Employee Relations Department since September 14, 2015. Previously I was working at the Community Development Department for nearly 20 years. I worked in permitting, code enforcement and finally as an Engineer Technician IV in the Land Use Review Section, Planning Department. I generally reviewed development plans for compliance, provided code interpretations, established legal nonconforming rights, reviewed administrative permits for churches, assisted living and towers and provided recommendations, and occasionally I attended Planning & Zoning Commission and/or Zoning Board of Examiners meetings and presented appeals before the board. Generally one or two in a year. My work for the prior 14 years was with Anchorage Municipal Code (AMC) Title 21.

I was recently approached by a citizen working in the engineering field asking me if I would consider consulting (AMC Title 21), for a fee, during my non-work hours. I am giving this option consideration, but want to ensure that it is not an ethics violation to be a current appointed Municipal employee to have a Land Use consulting business.
