SUBJECT: Observer Complaint re Confirming Accuracy of Scanning, Adjudication, Tabulation Machine and Process

Thank you for your complaint. You state that there “is no apparent way to confirm that scanned ballots and their votes are accurately being transmitted” to the tabulation server. “Additionally, there is no way to confirm whether or not votes are being tallied accurately by the machine.” However, there is such a process and it is called pre-election and post-election accuracy testing.

In Anchorage the “pre-election” testing called Logic and Accuracy Testing (LAT) was done on March 3-4, 2022 with the Anchorage Election Commission. We have attached the press release regarding the public announcement of Logic and Accuracy Testing, indicating the public is invited to attend and witness. The purpose of Logic and Accuracy Testing is exactly what you have asked for, it is way to confirm that scanned ballots and their votes are accurately being tallied by the scanning-adjudication-tabulation system. It is performed before every election to certify the accuracy of the equipment as one measure to ensure election integrity. The Election Commission members, Glennis Ireland, Loren Leman, Mead Treadwell, Elaine Nelson, and Lisa Torkelson were invited and assisted the Elections Team in this test. The LAT test results are maintained as part of the records for this election if you wish to review them.

The “post-election” accuracy testing is called a "Risk Limiting Audit" (RLA) and is another valuable tool to detect problems with election outcomes with a high degree of statistical confidence. Properly conducted post-election audits increase voter confidence and add another layer of security to elections. The MOA RLA is scheduled for May 17, 2022, beginning at 9:00 a.m.; the task will be to identify races and a target a number of ballots per race to audit, and compare the machine count of the votes on those ballots to a hand count.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide this information regarding pre- and post-election accuracy testing. Please plan on coming on the RLA on May 17, 2022; the public is welcome to attend.

In Logic & Accuracy Testing for 2022, all races performed as expected except Proposition 2, which was off by 1 vote out of 798 cards cast. There were 115 no votes instead of the 114 no votes anticipated. The Commission asked the Elections team to find the 1 ballot that was most likely misjudged and to attach a copy of the scan of the ballot and the audit report to this test if possible. BAJ
