WHEREAS, Anchorage has a newly adopted comprehensive plan that emphasizes higher density residential development near employment and town centers, transit oriented development with walkable streets, and protection of open space; and

WHEREAS, the first step toward implementing the plan will be to develop design standards and guidelines for new town centers, big box stores, high density residential development, site layouts and streetscapes; and

WHEREAS, charettes, workshops and visual preference surveys are desirable methods of involving the public in developing design standards; and

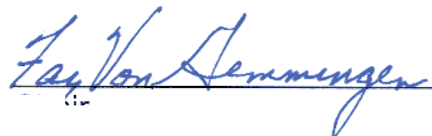

WHEREAS, the Federal Congestion Management and Air Quality (CMAQ) Program can fund community education and participation projects that will lead to a more livable community with concentrated development, preservation of open space, increased transit and walking, and improved air quality.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Anchorage Assembly resolves:

Section 1: That this body encourages AMATS to use CMAQ resources to conduct community education and participation projects including charettes, workshops and visual preference surveys as one step toward developing urban design standards and guidelines.
